EDUCATION REPORT APRIL 2024

I have recently conducted a Foundation Exam under the new ACMA system. The process worked very well and, from a paperwork point of view, was much simpler than the old way. It involved printing out an exam paper from an online portal, then once completed uploading a scanned copy. I was able to once again mark the exam and provide a result to the candidate. I am impressed with the new system.

At this stage I now have one potential candidate at some point in the future, so if you know anyone that has been thinking about getting into Amateur Radio, now might be a good time to encourage them to have a go. I would be happy to discuss with any potential newcomer the process to go through to get qualified, and offer support to get there.

That's it for this month.

Regards,

Tim VK5AV
